WHAT DO YOU GET?

When you hire Phil Rose Photography you don't just get a photographer for your wedding. Once we have met, talked about the day and how it might go and you have reserved my services we schedule the free added extra; the engagement shoot. All my wedding couples receive a complimentary, one hour location shoot at any time before the wedding to give them some images to use on invitations or simply to have for themselves. This could take place at your home or in a local park. Many couples choose to schedule this for the springtime when the flowers are blooming. Delightful!

Then, on the big day you will get a photographer who is based mostly in the photojournalistic style. I do the group shots, of course and I like to take the couple away for half an hour to get some beautiful staged images to take pride of place in your album but for most of the time I like to hold back- to capture the life of the party without being intrusive.

You also get an assistant for every wedding shoot. I have tried working alone and it just doesn't work so there will always be someone with me to set up lights (where necessary) and to corral errant aunts and uncle for the group shots!

All wedding couples also receive a $100 print credit to put towards whatever printing they may want to get done. Which brings us to...

...AFTER THE DAY?

Within two days of the wedding I will upload all the images as rough proofs to a password protected online gallery for you to view at your leisure. Then, after the honeymoon or at least after you have recovered, we can meet at my downtown studio to view the images on my digital projector and to talk about prints, about a book, about stretched canvas or whatever other ways you might want to display your images. And then I work up all those images and have them printed and delivered to you.

WHAT ABOUT THE PRICE?

Wedding photographers who concentrate solely on weddings can cost a lot of money because they have a limited number of dates available to make their yearly income. I am more diversified and so usually cost 30-50% less than more specialized people in the field. Having said that all shoots are custom bid so please get in touch for a free, no obligation meeting and quote. I'll even buy the coffee!
